Dear Parents and Carers,

May I politely remind you that children should NOT be bringing in any kind of toy, game or cuddly toys to school. They are a distraction, they could get lost and they could get damaged (and school isn't responsible for that).

Importantly, if your child has a sensory need, rest assured, children will be supported by either their teacher or the SEND and Inclusion Manager's who will provide them with whatever sensory support and resources they need.

Not bringing in general toys / squishy toy to play with supports the whole staff team to focus more on learning and progress - without distraction.

Thank you again for your support regarding this, it is greatly appreciated.

Yours sincerely,

Mr Davey
